Spoken English

The art of excusing yourself for a call

Created: Monday, 24 March 2014 09:45 | Published: Tuesday, 25 March 2014 04:18 | Written by Shailja Varma | Print

You are in an important sales meeting, when suddenly your phone rings. Your dear wife is calling and you have to answer the call. Your senior managers are present and all eyes are on you. How will you excuse yourself to answer this call? Excusing yourself to get a call is part of corporate etiquette and you should do it right to make a good impression. You should use yourEnglish conversational skills to politely excuse yourself for taking a phone call in between an important discussion.

Things To Remember When Excusing Yourself For A Call:

1. Politeness

Always be polite while excusing yourself for a call. Abrupt interruptions can be very disruptive to meetings and the presenters. The flow of thoughts and conversations is halted only due to your call. Hence, it is only reasonable to be polite while answering your call.

2. Don't be nervous

You should not be nervous while excusing yourself for a call. It is natural to receive an unexpected call in the midst of a meeting. You should be confident enough to face the meeting and ask for a break. Confidence is the main basis for fluent English conversations.

Excusing others for a call will notify others that you are busy on a call and they will accordingly respond to you.

Sample Situations And Dialogues For Excusing:

1. At a meeting:

"Excuse me, but I need to take this call." "Sorry for the disturbance, but I need to take a phone break." "Excuse me, I will be back in a moment."

2. At an outing with friends:

"Hey friends, I need to take this call." "You go ahead; I will catch up after this call". "Just a sec, I got a call."

3. At a date:

"Sorry honey, I need to take this call." "Could you please excuse me for a minute? I will be back after this call." "Just a moment dear, I need to take this call".

After the Call:

1. At a meeting:

"Sorry for the long delay, please carry on." "Sorry for the interruption".

2. At an outing with friends:

"Sorry guys, let's move out". "I am back".

3. At a date:

"Sorry honey, where we?" "Hey dear, I am back."

At times you may be required to leave the meeting or any situation; you can do this by saying:

1. "I am so sorry, but there is an emergency back home. I need to leave now."

2. "I have to rush home now. Sorry guys."

3. "Sorry dear, we need to leave now."

The above sample situation and dialogues will help you learn the art of excusing yourself for a call. Use your fluent English communication skills to convey your message across. Portray a confident self while taking a phone break. For more information and help, you can take the help of an English teacher by enrolling for anonline learning course. By joining such courses, you can improve your spoken English skills to a great extent. You will be more confident in dealing with any situation.

About Eagetutor:

eAgeTutor.com is the premier online tutoring provider. eAge's world class faculty and ace communication experts from around the globe help you to improve in an all round manner. Assignments and tasks based on a well researched content developed by subject matter and industry experts can certainly fetch the most desired results for improving spoken English skills. Overcoming limitations is just a click of mouse away in this age of effective and advance communication technology. For further information on onlineEnglish speaking course or to experience the wonders of virtual classroom fix a demonstration session with our tutor. Please visit www.eagetutor.com.

Contact us today to know more about our spoken English program and experience the exciting world of e-learning.

- By Shailja Varma

Related Topics:

- 1.How to describe your favourite movie?
- 2.Talking about life events Summer vacations
- 3. How to describe school you attended in the past?
- 4. How to explain charges to a guest?
- 5. How to explain the project plan to a group of senior management members?

Category:ROOT /Spoken English Joomla SEF URLs by Artio