Falling sick doesn't feel good and neither is visiting a doctor for your health issues. But what has to be done - has to be done! Earlier visiting a doctor just meant, going to the doctor's clinic directly; but today, visiting a doctor means, taking an appointment before visiting him/ her.

Taking this 'mandatory' appointment seems like a task. Many are concerned about their English speaking skills as well as the questions that might be asked over a phone conversation. Imagine calling to take an appointment but not being able to complete the conversation effectively due to the lack of English speaking skills.

To save yourself this horror, here's how to tackle an appointment conversation with your doctor:

Conversation starter

You: Good Morning! Is this Dr. Irani's clinic?

Receptionist: Good Morning Ma'am, yes this is the right place. How may I help you?

You: I wanted to take an appointment with Dr. Irani for some time during the day.

Receptionist: Sure Ma'am, let me just check his appointment sheet for the day. Could you please hold on for two minutes?

You: Sure, go ahead.

A few minutes later...

Receptionist: Thank you for staying on hold, Ma'am. Dr. Irani will be available between the time slot of 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. What time should I schedule your appointment for?

You: Could you fix my appointment for 5 p.m. please?

Receptionist: Sure Ma'am. See you at 5 p.m.

Was it simple? It was, wasn't it! That's how you stick to the basics of the language.
