

Grammar for improving your spoken English skills

Created: Wednesday, 12 February 2014 07:41 | Published: Sunday, 16 February 2014 14:38 | Written by Chander Madan | Print

As an English language learner, it is important for you to understand the fact that the strength of any spoken language basically lies in its grammar. Hence, if you wish to improve your spoken English skills, it is vital for you to work on your grammar, well at least the basics. This is an informative article that will teach you exactly what you need to know in grammar while speaking in English.

We understand that being perfect in grammar is a far off dream; however, you could invest some time in getting a good grip over the basics such as subjects, predicates, verbs and articles. Confused? Read on.

I] Subject:

The 'subject' in a sentence is referred to the 'who' or 'what' you're talking about. Remember that every sentence has a subject. If there is no subject, then you should instantly know that the sentence is incorrect.

Examples-

Tip: All the words in bold are the subject.

1. He was hungry.
2. That laptop was very expensive.
3. My sister and I will be going today.

II] Predicate:

The 'predicate' in a sentence plays the role of informing the person what the subject is doing. Predicates are the phrases that contain a verb, vital for any sentence formation. Always remember that the verb is always in the predicate.

Examples-

1. Hewas hungry.
2. That laptopwas very expensive.
3. My sister and Iwill be going today.

in simple sentences, the verb is mostly in the existing form. Some of the examples of the same are 'am', 'is', and 'are'.

Examples-

1. She needs towash her face.
2. Jackyspoke to Janice.
3. Rochelleis laughing.

IV] Articles:

The words 'a', 'an' and 'the' are referred to as articles. Understand the fact that 'a' and 'an' have the same meaning, however, 'a' is used when a word beginning with a consonant or sounding like a consonant is following it and 'an' is used when it is followed by a word that starts with a vowel or sounds like a vowel. Another basic rule to keep in mind is that articles are not used before a name.

Examples- 'a' and 'an'

1. A dog crossed the bridge.
2. An eagle flew over the bridge.

Examples- When and when not to use an article

1. Turn left at the burger joint.
2. Turn right at KFC.
3. The girl was running very fast.
4. Rita was running very fast.

Learning English grammar could be a boring process, but only at the start. Once you gain momentum and start learning new rules, the fun portion begins. So, open up your mind to the vast world of knowledge as the more you learn, the more confident you get. Bring out those grammar books and let the learning begin because you are just a few steps away from attaining the envious English speaking fluency many try to achieve.

About Eagetutor:

eAgeTutor.com is the premier online tutoring provider. eAge's world class faculty and ace communication experts from around the globe help you to improve English in an all round manner. Assignments and tasks based on a well-researched content developed by subject matter and industry experts can certainly fetch the most desired results for improving spoken English skills. Overcoming limitations is just a click of mouse away in this age of effective and advance communication technology. For further information on online English speaking course or to experience the wonders of virtual classroom fix a demonstration session with our tutor. Please visit www.eagetutor.com.

Contact us today to know more about our spoken English program and experience the exciting world of e-learning.

- By Chander Madan

Related Topics-

1. What are vowels and Consonants?
2. How to Stress on Words While Speaking English?
3. Test your English Skills
4. Prepositions and its use in the English language
5. Introduction to and appropriate use of adverbs

Category: Spoken English / English Grammar

Joomla SEF URLs by Artio